Brighton Extends Emergency Orders to Support Public Health

Brighton Town Supervisor William W. Moehle issued Emergency Order 2020.4 today extending through May 4 previous emergency orders closing the parking lot at Corbett's Glen Nature Park and establishing "no parking" along streets near Corbett's Glen; prohibiting garage sales; and allowing residents to use camping trailers and recreational vehicles for self-quarantining on their property. These temporary changes have been made in the interest of public health during the COVID-19 pandemic.

These measures encourage social distancing by reducing the number of hikers using the narrow trails of Corbett's Glen and prohibiting the kind of close interactions that occur at neighborhood garage sales. By lifting certain restrictions on camping trailers and RVs, families can keep a social distance from one another and even self-quarantine to protect the health of every family member.
